

COLOR KIT

A 10x10 grid of rounded squares. A pink line starts at the top edge of the first square in the second column, curves down and right to the bottom of the second square in the second column, then continues right to the third square in the second column. From there, it curves up and right to the top of the fourth square in the second column, loops around to the left to the top of the third square in the third column, then continues right to the fourth square in the third column. From there, it curves up and right to the top of the fifth square in the third column, then continues right to the sixth square in the third column. From there, it curves down and right to the bottom of the seventh square in the third column, then continues right to the eighth square in the third column. From there, it curves down and right to the bottom of the ninth square in the third column, then continues right to the tenth square in the third column. Finally, it curves down and right to the bottom of the eleventh square in the third column, then continues right to the twelfth square in the third column. The line ends at the bottom edge of the twelfth square in the third column.
